The Alumni President's Message

Dear Fellow Alumni and Friends:

As I write this letter I'm thinking of the large group of Maryville College Alumni and Friends scattered around the world. Each is engaged in some important occupation that reflects credit to his Alma Mater. But as you give yourself to your job you are constantly thinking of Maryville and maintain a deep and sincere interest in her welfare.

During the past year I have received a great many letters asking about the College, the Chapel Campaign and other activities in which you are interested. I have answered each of these letters personally and want you to know that we appreciate the interest you manifest and invite you to write your Alumni Office at anytime.

It is gratifying to see the increased interest shown by the Alumni and former students of Maryville College. At Homecoming this year we had the largest crowd ever. It was a real homecoming and now we look forward to a great occasion at Commencement. We anxiously anticipate and plan for these events because you respond in ever increasing numbers.

There is much activity going on "on the Hill". The Fine Arts building is under construction. Progress continues to be made on the Chapel Campaign but the need at this point is still great. The letter that came to you on March 15th gave you a comprehensive picture of the situation. May I urge again that you give and give liberally to this fund. May I suggest further that you keep constantly before you the total program of the College as it meets the demands of the times.

A strong, loyal and aggressive Alumni Association is essential-yes, vital-if our Alma Mater is to continue to move forward and we're counting on each of you to bear his share of the responsibility.

Make your plans to come Commencement; if you can't, come by when you happen to be in the area; if neither of these suggestions are fitting then write us. We shall look forward to some expression from you.

Sincerely,

Earl Blazer, President,
Alumni Association

Dear Maryville College Family:

The Spring of 1950 will be half gone when you read this page but is only six days old as I write. It takes more time now than formerly for a publication like this to get through the press and the mails. There will be some developments, I hope, in some of the following matters, but substantially the facts should be much the same.

The Chapel

Before this arrives each Maryville College alumnus will have received an urgent letter of appeal for the Chapel Fund. The letter is published on another page. It has gone to all alumni, those who had subscribed and those who had not. We hope all, without exception, with a deep sense of indebtedness to their Alma Mater, will give. There is no first rank college in America, open to all qualified students, where the charges to students are as low as those at Maryville. The February Good Housekeeping article on the Small College shows Maryville's unique position. The value per dollar which we alumni received here is unsurpassed, perhaps unmatched, anywhere in the United States. That policy should develop a high proportion of reciprocal giving by alumni. It has not worked that way in the past. But we hope that in response to this Chapel appeal alumni will start a new and noble tradition. Its goal—every graduate an investor in the College of the future.

The Fine Arts Center

On another page there is an account of the ground-breaking ceremony on last Founders Day. In it there is given a progress report on construction. We who are nearby watch each new development with genuine interest. The architects come down from Chicago from time to time. The photograph on another page shows the present appearance above ground, but so far most of the work has been below or on the ground level. When you read this, the appearance will be very different, and by Commencement the building will be well along.

A Music Hall Organ

We have known from the beginning that one of the essentials in the Music Hall of the Fine Arts Center would be an organ of high quality and varied range for teaching and concert work. We did not know how it could be provided. Now we are rejoicing in gifts which make it possible as soon as it can be built and installed. We are thoroughly exploring the question with the leading organ builders and with leading organists. Probably before this is read a contract will be let and an organ, whose building will take at least two-thirds of a year, will be in construction.

And College is in Session Daily

While these important advances in the Chapel and Fine Arts require much attention, they do not alter the College's daily program and planning. There are a hundred things about which one could write. They add up to the fact that another college year is in the home stretch. We will graduate the largest class in Maryville history—probably about 182. It is the big postwar class and is not expected to be equalled again unless the College decides to be larger. We have no such plan, although our dormitories are already full for next September and many applicants will have to be turned away. We could easily grow much larger, but it would be a different Maryville of a kind which most of us do not desire. I hope we can remain small enough to be one "family" whose members know each other and do things as a family, do them well, do them by Christian standards.

Cordially yours,

Ralph Waldo Lloyd

THIS LETTER WAS MAILED TO ALL ALUMNI IN MARCH

CALLING ALL ALUMNI TO THE CHAPEL:

THE TIME HAS COME! Adequate funds must be assured now if we are to have a new Chapel completed for the opening of college in September, 1951. Even that will mean four years without a Chapel. Surely no longer time must be allowed to pass.

THIS LETTER IS A CALL to every Maryville College graduate and former student who has not given to the limit of his or her ability to send a subscription at once on the enclosed card. Alumni have subscribed to date $72,904.09. In Maryville and a number of other communities where alumni are somewhat concentrated, committees have conducted campaigns. But most of you have not yet subscribed because you have not been offered a clear-cut chance to do so. This letter offers that chance.

THE TOTAL IN MONEY AND PLEDGES received from subscriptions and insurance up to this time is $251,797.13. Since the fire $10,720.02 has been spent to clear away the debris and to replace pianos and other essential equipment. We have in hand $199,028.12 in cash and $42.048.99 in pledges, a total of $241,077.11 for future use. The estimated minimum cost of an adequate fireproof Chapel, without equipment, is $400.000. Therefore we still need $160,000. Our graduates and former students are asked to give it.

THE STORY OF THE FIRE which destroyed Voorhees Chapel in 1947 and of the plans for the new "Samuel Tyndale Wilson Chapel" is told in a brochure which most of you have seen or will see. But your subscription should not wait for that. Everyone by now knows of the loss and of the urgent need. The Fine Arts Center is under construction; the Chapel must be started.

A PLEDGE CARD AND A RETURN ENVELOPE are enclosed. If you have not subscribed or find you can increase your subscription, won't you fill out the card and mail it at once, with or without an initial payment.

PAYMENTS MAY BE SPREAD OVER TWO YEARS. Please note that the card permits pledges through 1950 and 1951 if desired. For most people this will allow the amount subscribed to be much larger than could be given immediately. Two things are of paramount importance: first, everyone should give; second, everyone should give to the limit.

GIFTS OF ALL SIZES are welcome, but many must be large. Memorials are possible—the organ is listed at $25,000, windows at $1.000, seat endowments at $150, other memorials in between. Such items as the organ and the furniture are above the building estimate of $400,000.

WE WHO SIGN THIS LETTER are officials of the College and Alumni Association, but all four of us are also alumni. We have made our subscriptions to the Chapel Fund and have made them as large as we could. Will you join us? If so—mail the card!

Loyally yours,

SAMUEL O. HOUSTON, '98, Chairman of the Board of Directors

RALPH W. LLOYD, '15, President of the College

JOE C. GAMBLE, '26, Recorder of the Board of Directors

EARL W. BLAZER, '30, President of the Alumni Association

Have you sent in your pledge?

ALUMNI CLUBS

The Nashville alumni had a meeting last fall at which nineteen were present. Rev. Flynn G. Humphreys, ex '25, was elected chairman, Dr. John A. Hyden, '14, vice chairman, Miss Mabel I. Baker, '23, secretary, and Mrs Mary Trotter Shields, ex '37, treasurer. Earl Blazer, president of the Alumni Association, and Mrs. Blazer attended the meeting. The group expects to have another meeting April 15.

On March 24 the Maryville College Club of Metropolitan New York met at the Port Arthur Restaurant in the Chinese section of Manhattan. About fifty attended. Rev. Robert E. Seel, '45, was elected chairman to succeed Ralph B. Tefferteller, '32; James M. Rich, '39, vice chairman to succeed William S. Quigley, '36; and Mrs. Marjorie Jones Spilatore, '34, secretary-treasurer to succeed John O. Henderson, '22. President Lloyd was present and gave a report on college affairs. After the dinner and business meeting, a square dance was held under the supervision of Ralph Tefferteller, an expert in such group activities.

The Philadelphia Maryville College Club will hold its spring meeting on April 29 at 7:00 p.m. at D. F. McCallister's Caterers, 1811 Spring Garden Street, Philadelphia. Norman H. Beamer, '37, 406 Drexel Avenue, Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania, is chairman and will be glad to take reservations from any alumni who can attend.

The Northern Ohio alumni plan a meeting for the latter part of April. Rev. Arthur R. Kinsler, Jr., '24, North Presbyterian Church, Cleveland, Ohio, is chairman.

The alumni in the Boston area plan to have a meeting, on Thursday, April 27. Get in touch with Leland T. Waggoner, '38, Mutual Life Insurance Company, 31 Milt Street, Boston 9, or with Mrs. John C. Carr (Lois Black, '38), 30 Burnside Street, Medford, Massachussets.

THE FINE ARTS BUILDING

Ground was broken for the new Fine Arts Center on Founders and Homecoming Day, October 29, 1949. In August the drawings and specifications were completed by Schweikher and Elting, architects, Chicago; in September several contractors prepared bids; in October a contract was let to Johnson and Willard, Knoxville, and ground was broken; in November construction began. Expectations are that the building will be ready for occupancy by the middle of the summer.

There was naturally much interest in the ground-breaking ceremony. At the chapel hour, at the call of trumpeters, students, faculty, and visitors gathered before a large temporary platform at the site selected for the building. The college band played for the processional in which were the choir, those participating in the program, seven of the Directors of the College, Mr. Elting of the architect firm of Schweikher and Elting, and Mr. Johnson, Mr. Willard and others of the firm of contractors. President Lloyd presided and gave the address on the subject, "On This Ground Let Us Build." Dean Hunter read the Scripture, Dean McClelland offered the principal prayer. A telegram of good will from the doners was read.

Each of the following persons then turned a shovel of dirt: President Lloyd; Judge John C. Crawford, Recorder of the Directors, representing Judge Samuel O. Houston, Chairman of the Directors, who was ill; Mr. Earl W. Blazer, '30, President of the Alumni Association; Miss Katharine C. Davies, Chairman of the Division of Fine Arts; Mr. William W. Nish, President of the Student Body and Student Council; and, impromptu and fittingly, Ernest C. ("Brownie") Brown, Campus Engineer.

As this is written (which of necessity must be some weeks before it is read), most of the concrete footings and walls have been poured, the concrete floors are being poured, the brick walls are starting up, and the structural steel is on the ground. When these words are read doubtless steel and brick will be well up. Record breaking rains in January and early February have prevented regular work, but the contractor believes there has been no permanent delay and that the original schedule, which promises the building by July, will be met. This will mean occupancy in time for the opening of the Fall Semester.

A detailed description of the building will be more practicable in the next issue of the Alumni Magazine, but the following general statements made by President Lloyd on Founders Day will be of interest now: "Everything in the building will have a purpose. There are no useless features or materials. The best experience of others has been consulted. The plans have been carefully analysed and simplified. The building will be interesting as a total plan and in detail. There is nothing drab or neutral about it. It will be distinctive. It is designed for Maryville College. It is not copied from any other building. It is designed to fit the contour of the ground and will follow and make use of the land as it is. There will be very little excavation and practically no basement.

President Lloyd, Dean Hunter, Dean McClelland, and Professor Davies at the Founders Day Service. Bill Nish, President of the Student Council, can be glimpsed back of Dr. Lloyd, and Miss Clemmie Henry and Miss Nellie McCampbell, two Directors, may be glimpsed behind Miss Davies.

"The conception is contemporary. There are no buildings in this part of the country of this particular kind and few on college campuses anywhere. Perhaps all of us will have to become acquainted with it as a new friend. Most of us understand at first only the traditional people and clothes and customs and architecture we know. This is to be a Fine Arts Center and therefore one of its services will be to reflect creative art of the period in which it was built, not some former period, and to teach this and future generations of students and visitors these ways of thinking."

The building is located on the north corner of the campus; that is, the attractive open area beyond Baldwin Hall and the site of the former Voorhees Chapel, the area through which the "cinder path" for years and years has run from the Chapel to the Southern Railroad Station, an area which in recent years has been part of the golf course.

It is an extensive building with an over-all length of 375 feet and a cross wing of 190 feet. When completed it will be of one and two stories. Its materials will be chiefly brick, concrete, steel, and glass, with some natural woods.

The main facilities provided are: five classrooms, 12 music teaching studios, 35 music practice rooms, a band and orchestra rehearsal room, a wing of painting, ceramics, and sculpture studios, an art gallery 60 feet long, a music and lecture hall seating 250 people, radio control room and broadcasting studio, a library, record listening rooms, divisional offices, a lounge and kitchenette, maintenance and caretakers' rooms, public washrooms, spacious outdoor terraces. A pipe organ is being provided for the music and lecture hall.

This Fine Arts Center, made possible by the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Glen A. Lloyd, will be a magnificent addition to the equipment and program of the College.

Part of the crowd at the service.

ATHLETICS

Maryville won second place, with 29 points, in the Southeastern A. A. U. Tourney at Auburn. Henry Callaway, Jr., won the "Outstanding Wrestler" trophy of the tournament.

The cross country team had an undefeated season, winning once over the University of Tennessee and twice over Tennessee Polytechnic Institute and twice over the University of the South.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Last fall, after a year's study by a faculty-student committee, the Maryville College Playhouse was organized to produce the major plays and the experimental plays. It is under the supervision of the teacher of drama and membership is open to all students, whether or not they are taking courses in the drama department. This Playhouse replaces the old Maryville College Players organization and the production of a major play by each of the societies. A workshop has been outfitted and the maintenance department of the College has built a movable stage for use in the Alumni Gymnasium. "Laura," given last November, was the first play to be given in the Gym with the new stage and equipment and was very successful. The spring play, "Hedda Gabler" by Ibsen, was given March 17 and 18. The Commencement Play will be Maxwell Anderson's "Joan of Lorraine."

The short experimental plays continue to be given in Bartlett auditorium. This year they have included a short version of the Elizabethan farce, "Gammer Gurton's Needle," "The Happy Journey" by Thornton Wilder, E. E. Evrienov's "Theatre of the Soul," an expressionistic play, and "Echo" by Robert Kasper, an experiment in time.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING REPORT

The February issue of "Good Housekeeping" carries its annual Report on Small Colleges and again Maryville is in this list of colleges of high academic standing, with an enrollment of fewer than two thousand students, and in the "thousand dollar range" (Maryville of course is much lower than that). In the article Maryville is mentioned particularly in connection with the $100,000 gift of the Aluminum Company of America a year ago as an example of the increasing interest of business and industry in the small college program.

The 1950 team opened the season with a 14-3 win over Miami University.

Miss Ellen E. Collins, of Montgomery, Ala., reigns as Homecoming Queen.

HOMECOMING

The pleasure and excitement of breaking ground for a major building (the first since Thaw Hall was built in 1921) carried over into the rest of the day. In the afternoon the band led a parade of floats and cars through town; Queen Ellen and her court won much applause. About four hundred alumni and their families came to the barbecue, registering from as far north as Philadelphia and as far south as Jacksonville. The football game following the barbecue turned out to be the most exciting of the season, Maryville defeating Western Carolina 20-13.

Homecoming and Founders Day next fall will be on October 21. Plan now to come.

THE ARTISTS SERIES

Last year the Artists Series were resumed in some measure when Professor Gabriel Fenyves, Head of the Piano Department at Macalester College, came to the campus for a two-day lecture and recital period and when Mrs. Rosa Page Welch, mezzo-soprano, gave a recital. The expenses of both of these visitors were paid by the Artists Series.

Since the Chapel burned there has been no attempt at regular concerts as there used to be, but this year, after the success of last year's ventures, it was decided to try a series in the Gym. The first concert was by Earle Spicer, baritone, who sang ballads and folk songs. The second event was a demonstration lecture by Professor Howard Thomas, Head of the Art Department at the University of Georgia, and the third was a concert by the University of Alabama String Quartet. Professor Thomas, like Professor Fenyves last year, came under the auspices of the Association of American Colleges Arts Program and was on the campus for two days. He spoke at Chapel and to various classes, and gave two evening lectures.

The Series has gone very well with our present limited facilities and it is planned to have another series next year.

DANFORTH FELLOWSHIP

Mary Holly Webb, who will graduate in May, has been awarded a $1,500 Danforth Fellowship for next year. She is the third Maryville graduate to win such a Fellowship in the last four years. Only fifteen are given each year. The university at which Mary Holly will work will be determined later.

DEATH OF TWO DIRECTORS

Mr. Thomas McCroskey, of Knoxville, died in Florida on January 5. He had been a Director of the College since 1934 and had served on the Committee on Finance for twelve years and on the Committee on Administration for three and a half years. Mr. McCroskey was president of the American Limestone Company for many years and was a well known businessman of Knoxville.

Judge John Calvin Crawford, '97, a Director of the College since 1907, died at his home in Maryville on November 7. He served on the Finance Committee of the Directors for many years and had been Recorder of the Directors for the past six years. Judge Crawford was a civic and church leader of the community and was widely known.

Mrs. Crawford (Maud Farnham) also attended Maryville College and their six sons were all graduated from Maryville: John, Jr., '27, George, '28, Earle, '35, Lynn, '37, Ernest, '39, and Roy, '43. He is survived also by three brothers and two sisters, all of whom are Maryville alumni. His father was Rev. Gideon S. W. Crawford, '71, who was Professor of Mathematics at the College for sixteen years.

DEBATE

The 1950 debate squad, composed of some twenty students, had a successful season. Teams attended five tournaments: one at Sewanee, the State Tournament held at Cookeville, the South Atlantic at Hickory, North Carolina, the Pi Kappa Delta Regional at Athens, Georgia, and the Blue Grass at Lexington, Kentucky.

At the State Tournament, the Maryville women's team took first place in debate; Maryville contestants won first place in both men's and women's oratory, first in after-dinner speaking, and second in women's impromptu. A Maryville speaker won the annual peace oratorical trophy, while another Maryville candidate placed third in this event.

At the South Atlantic Tournament, the Maryville men's debate team tied for first place. Maryville took first and second in women's oratory, first in men's oratory, first in men's after-dinner speaking and first in women's impromptu.

Maryville men tied for first in debate at the Pi Kappa Delta Tournament. The College also took first in men's oratory, first in women's extempore, second in women's impromptu, and second and third in women's oratory.

Five individual non-decision debates were held with Waynesboro College of Waynesboro, Pennsylvania, Lincoln Memorial University, and the University of Tennessee.

THE MARYVILLE COLLEGE PARISH

The Maryville College Parish is finishing its fourteenth year of activity. During the year sixty-four college students have participated in the program in some capacity. Thirty were in the work both semesters, and the others for one semester only.

In the present semester fifty assignments are in effect, distributed by classes as follows: seniors sixteen, juniors twenty-two, and sophomores twenty-six. The Parish continues its policy of using only members of the upper three classes. As might be expected, students in the program this year come from a large number of states, seventeen to be exact, ranging from Colorado and North Dakota to Florida and Massachussets. The largest number come—yes, you guessed—from Pennsylvania (13) with Tennessee next (10), then New Jersey (7) and New York (6).

Twelve students work in rural Sunday Schools, which they reach by the College Station Wagon (in its fourth year, with almost 30,000 miles behind it, but going strong!). Here they act as superintendents, teachers of classes, leaders of music, and pianists. This work is in cooperation with the Presbyterian Sunday School missionary, the Rev. Wm B. MacCready, who supervises and counsels in this work. Six students work in two Maryville missions, supplementing the leadership which New Providence Presbyterian Church provides. Five others are active in other Maryville churches, in Sunday School teaching and in choir work. Two students provide leadership for a young people's program in a rural church.

Twenty-five go out to three rural elementary schools and have a period of worship and Bible teaching once a week. Each college student takes over a school grade for about forty minutes. Reports from the principals of these schools tell of the interest of the boys and girls in the program. Partly it is the singing; partly the Bible stories that are used; partly the special features which the parish teachers plan for their groups. Sometimes the group prepares a special program. Or interesting handwork has a new appeal to a class. And last fall, one parish teacher took his group on an all-day hike as an extra special outing. Before the program begins in the fall and after the Christmas vacation, pupils in the rural schools are asking teachers, "When are the college teachers coming?"

This program receives college credit, three hours for the first year, and one hour for the second. A few students are so interested in their projects that they stay on for a third year as 'emeritus' workers. Usually this longer stay means a more effective work, for such students are much more completely accepted by the Sunday School group; they are not outsiders, but interested and understanding leaders.

For first-year workers, there is a one-hour college class, which takes up the problems and program of the small church school. For week-day teachers, there are conferences with faculty advisers, Mrs. John Cummings, Mr. D. L. Engelhardt, and Dr. Ralph T. Case, for planning the week-day sessions.

Usually most of the college men are pre-ministerial students, though a few others are interested in the Parish as a service project because of interest in children or in helping small rural churches as preparation for lay leadership. Some of the college women are planning for church work as a vocation, though many are working in the parish program for the good that they can do and as preparation for later church work on a volunteer basis. Such interest continues in a lively fashion from year to year; and this year, as in previous years, there is a waiting list of applicants for openings in the Parish, hoping to be used at least in the next semester.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Thanksgiving Day and Barnwarming, the Messiah, final examinations, Christmas Vespers, even Christmas vacation, all seem long ago but they were important events in the program of the college year.

Since Christmas the main topic has been the weather. January and February were extremely warm and rainy and then in March came the coldest weather of the winter. The February Meetings were outstanding and the rain seemed to have no effect on the attendance. The Opera Workship production and the Experimental Theatre plays, the Artists Series, the basketball games and wrestling matches, the spring sports, the minstrel show for the World Student Service Fund, choir concerts on the campus and in the town and in churches in nearby towns, debate trips, the Easter services, including the lovely sunrise service in the Amphitheatre, comprehensive examinations, May Day (the theme is to be "Alice in Wonderland"), —all these are familiar to alumni and will remind them of how varied and now numerous campus activities can be.

Commencement, of course, is the climax and this year with the largest class in Maryville's history graduation should be more exciting than ever. On the inside cover of this issue is given a calendar of events. We hope a good many of you alumni will come. If you write us at the Alumni Office in advance we shall be glad to help with room reservations, banquet tickets, play tickets, and the like. Remember how beautiful the campus and the Smoky Mountains are in May.

DON'T FORGET YOUR DUES

There is still time to pay your 1949-1950 dues before the close of the Alumni Association's fiscal year on June 30. This money is used for the magazine, and toward other current expenses of the Alumni Office. If everyone paid his dues regularly the Association would be able to do more and would need to worry less about the bills. So send your $2.00—and at the same time send us a news item about yourself.

THE 1950 FEBRUARY MEETINGS

Rev. Dr. William M. Elliott, Jr., proved to be a most effective and inspiring leader of the February Meetings. The morning services were held in the Gym as regular chapel is, and the evening services in New Providence Church. Every evening the church was crowded in spite of the heavy rain several nights.

Dr. Stringham, song leader for the twenty-eighth time, was a day late in arriving because of the death of his father on January 29. Ed Hamilton, '26, voice teacher at Knoxville High School and the University of Tennessee, led the singing the first night.

Dr. Elliott is pastor of the Highland Park Presbyterian Church, Dallas, Texas, and Dr. Stringham is pastor of the Cabanne Methodist Church, St. Louis.
